

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention relates to a method and a system for colonizing a plant with a mycorrhizal fungus that comprise placing at least one layer of a culture medium that comprises a fungal inoculum adjacently to at least one layer of a soil. The fungal inoculum is allowed to grow through the soil layer and the plant is inserted into the culture medium and soil layers to permit its contact with the fungus.